BIOGRAPHICAL/HISTORICAL NOTE

The Fruehauf Trailer Company was incorporated in 1918 in Detroit, Michigan by August Fruehauf, a blacksmith and carriage builder. In 1914 he had been asked by a neighbor to build a trailer to haul a boat behind a Ford Model T, this trailer was so successful he was soon asked to build more trailers to haul lumber. Business boomed over the next four years, and Fruehauf Trailer Company was established. The popularity of the trailers increased as the company made several innovations to the trailers utilizing various sizes and designs.

In 1930, August’s son Harvey Fruehauf, took over as president and focused on sales campaigns to widen the company’s customer base. Harvey retired in 1949, and Roy Fruehauf, August’s youngest son, became president. Roy established manufacturing branches all over the United States and Europe and expanded the business world-wide. In the mid-1950s, however, Roy’s financial interactions with the Teamsters led to federal indictments which, though eventually dismissed, resulted in instability in the company. In 1958, Roy stepped down as president and William Grace took over the role. The company again found itself in legal troubles over tax and financial practices when they were indicted and tried for tax evasion in the 1970s. By the 1980s, financial issues forced the company to sell off some of its divisions. The company continued to struggle financially and in 1996, Fruehauf Trailer declared bankruptcy under Chapter 11 and was bought out by Wabash Trucking in 1997.
